FOREWORD

As you turn the pages of the 1955 ARROWHEAD, you will find a story in pictures and words of our school as we live and learn together, preparing ourselves for our future vocations.

We hope this book will be a permanent record depicting our classroom work, sporting events, and extra-curricular activities during the past year.

We dedicate this edition of the ARROWHEAD to our Coach, Mr. W. G. Bays whose understanding and kindness shall make him long remembered as our faithful friend.

STUDENT PARTICIPATION IN GOVERNMENT

STUDENT COUNCIL

Joetta Nash, Secretary; Mr. Marvin Gilliam, Sponsor; Elizabeth Stallard, President; Peggy Bradley, Treasurer; and James Day, Vice President plan for American Education Week.

Seniors learn good government in Civics class.

Library Assistants, Janice Connell and Geraldine Huffman, help Miss Barr put new books on the shelf.

MAKES GOOD SCHOOL CITIZENS

Earl Collier and Sylvia Parsons paint a picture. Pictures and masks on the bulletin board were done by other members of the Art Class

Mr. Meade watches as Scott Davis and Don Womack go through the steps to purify water.

"So little done-so much to do."

BUSINESS EDUCATION ENCOURAGES VOCATIONAL INTEREST

Pupils may learn office procedure by working in the Principal's Office during study halls. Mr. Addington dictates a letter to Ruth Prater, Secretary, as student office workers, Anita Wheatley and Anita Carter finish their work.

Distributive Education, introduced this year, is a class in salesmanship and retailing. It is a school-business-community co-operative program in which pupils work afternoons and Saturdays in retail stores in the community.

Peggy Bradley is being interviewed for a job by Leonard Falin.

Members of the Distributive Education Class, Dalton Graham and James Lawson, display some of their qualities of good salesmanship as they measure a suit for Don Roberts.

The Department of Business Education includes two years typing, one year shorthand, one year bookkeeping, and Vocational Office Training.

The last, introduced this year, is a school-business-community co-operative program in which Seniors taking this course get the fundamentals of office training in the classroom and work in offices afternoons and Saturdays.

All those training for Business Careers take two years typing.

Betty Sue Wells transcribes from the disc.

One of the machines used by Vocational Office training class is the mimeograph machine.

ARROWHEAD

Kyle Collier, Editor, Mrs. Geraldine P. Dickenson, Sponsor, and Elizabeth Addington, Assistant Editor, look through the file for pictures for the annual.

Shirley Gilliam, Literary Editor, and Gay Kiser, Assistant, think hard for a theme.

Circulation Manager, Scott Davis, and assistant, Mary Alice Kelly, use their sales talk to good advantage.

Feature Editor, Charlotte Jones, and Assistant, Anita Wheatley, admire the picture of Miss Kelly High.

Sports Editor, Don Womack, and his Assistant, Carroll Dale, admire the basketball trophy received last year for District 8 Champs.

Advertising Managers, Scott Davis and Richard Kiser keep the Business Managers, Florence Blackwell and Assistant, Shirley Dingus busy by bringing in these sales.

Typists, Mary Mullins and Cynthia Powers, work together to get the annual copy typed.

ARROW

Editor, Lona Wharton, and Sponsor, Miss Verna Mae Barr, proofread an issue.

Art Editors, Vivian Breeding and Ronald Dotson, use their talent for drawing pictures for the Arrow.

Sports Editor, Dalton Graham, interviews captains of basketball teams, Jean Bates, Betty Jo Anderson, and Richard Kiser.

News Editors, Lorene Addington and Alma Bellamy, talk to Mr. Beverly about the senior trip to Washington.

Business Manager, Carl Snodgrass, sells an Arrow to Jack Stallard and Bobby Greene.

Typists, Betty Mullins, Gene Meade, and Betty Absher, are getting their stencils ready to be mimeographed.

ACTIVITIES OUTSIDE

A scene from the Junior play "Papa Is All," starring Dorothy Johnson, William Jessee, Thomas Dorton, Mary Lou Hubbard, Darrell Shepherd, and Patricia McLaughlin.

Mr. Stanley helps Marlene Stallard plan her schedule for next year.

Some of the Home Economics girls with the assistance of Mrs. Vicars and Mrs. Taylor make a chart showing the basic seven foods for the Nutrition Survey.

Custodian Lance Dale and Matrons Grace Stallard and Knelpie Ramsey begin a new day.

THE CLASSROOM

Mr. Addington is pictured with two visitors during American Education Week. Tong-Chi Lee and Chi-sheng Chu, Principals of High Schools, Taiwan, Formosa.

Buses loading at end of the day. Approximately 560 pupils are transported by buses.

11:40-first lunch period

Jean DePriest and Norma Heaberlin complete their first arrangement.

DRUMMERS

Tom Dorton, Ronald Sexton, Bob Dorton, Emory Messer, and Lynn Wells.

The Music Department of our school is composed of Band and Choral under the direction of Mr. William Walker and Piano with Miss Elizabeth Stephens as teacher.

The band has 58 members and choral class has 31 members.

ENSEMBLE

Doris Owens, Carolyn Bates, Martha Dotson, William Jones, Lawrence Rhodes, Wilma Duncan, Robert Riner and John Robert Hubbard.

CHORAL CLASS

Choral Class of 31 members under the direction of Mr. Walker is shown doing one of their numbers for the Christmas Program.

PIANO

Miss Elizabeth Stephens with one of her piano pupils, Dina Lee Mullins.

One of the activities of girls' Physical Education class is pitching horseshoe.

Through our Physical Education program we not only improve our bodies, but we learn to be a part of the team and to co-operate and work together.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Boys enjoy soccer under the direction of Mr. Bays.

Softball

Everyone looks forward to Friday when boys and girls join in rhythm games.
